~~Before long, The~~ summer holidays will ~~come~~ ~~be here before long~~. What ~~should~~ ~~shall~~ I do this summer? I ~~am an examinee~~ ~~going to be take~~ ~~taking college an~~ entrance ~~examination~~ ~~exams for a college~~ next year. ~~So~~ ~~it~~ ~~I should~~ probably ~~follows that I will have to prepare for it~~ ~~get ready for those~~.

This afternoon I took a period of Japanese ~~classics~~ Classics. I like the subject because I can ~~study~~ ~~learn about~~ how Japanese people ~~felt~~ ~~perceived~~ nature and beauty in ~~the~~ medieval and early modern periods. It ~~wa~~'s quite impressive to know that there were a variety of senses or ways of ~~thought~~ thinking. I was wondering ~~if I have~~ ~~whether to take~~ a summer course ~~of~~ ~~in~~ Japanese ~~classics~~ Classics at a preparatory school.

~~But I'm~~ ~~have~~ so tired because I had three practice matches ~~at~~ ~~for~~ lacrosse club after school yesterday. ~~I have felt serious muscular pain in the~~ My arms and sides ~~really ache~~. ~~So~~ ~~so~~ I guessed I should ~~cut the~~ ~~skip~~ practice and go to ~~Karaoke~~ karaoke with Tomomi.

I know a very cheap ~~K~~ karaoke bar ~~place~~ in Shibuya ~~and~~ ~~I~~ often ~~enjoy~~ ~~go there and~~ ~~singing in a loud voice there~~ly. It was terribly hot, ~~and that~~ we dropped by a Starbucks in front of the station. We had a nice time chatting; ~~it made me wish, so I hoped~~ my schooldays ~~won't be over~~ would never end. ### Feedback

This is a great diary in terms of English expression. The author communicates his/her thoughts clearly and in detail in a standard of English that is easy to understand.

Advice

“I have felt serious muscular pain” is grammatically correct, but it’s not what a native speaker would say. For native English, consider the following:

→ “My arms and sides really ache”

→ “My arms and sides are still sore”

“Wish” is for unreal situations, and “hope” is for desired results. Examples:

I wish I lived in Hawaii.

I hope I pass the exam!

→ “It made me ~~hope~~ wish my schooldays would never end”

For regular activities or general truths, use the simple present tense:

The iPad is a great piece of technology.

After I get up, I take a shower.

→ “~~It was~~ It's quite impressive to know that...”
